TRUMP GREENLAND SCANDINAVIANS HYPERBORIA AND ULTIIMATE THULE

Greenland is an ancient Scandinavian Location that Trump is interested in today. It is where his bloodline came from. Hum. Is that an interesting coincidence or prophetic in nature? Ancient prophecies tell us that while the ORIGINAL Scandinavian race who had the DIVINE RIGHT TO RULE OUR WORD had been conquered that one that they will ARISE TO RULE THE WORLD AGAIN.

It is a widespread belief that modern humans arrived in Europe about 45,000 years ago. What is not known is how they spread across the continent before the introduction of farming techniques.

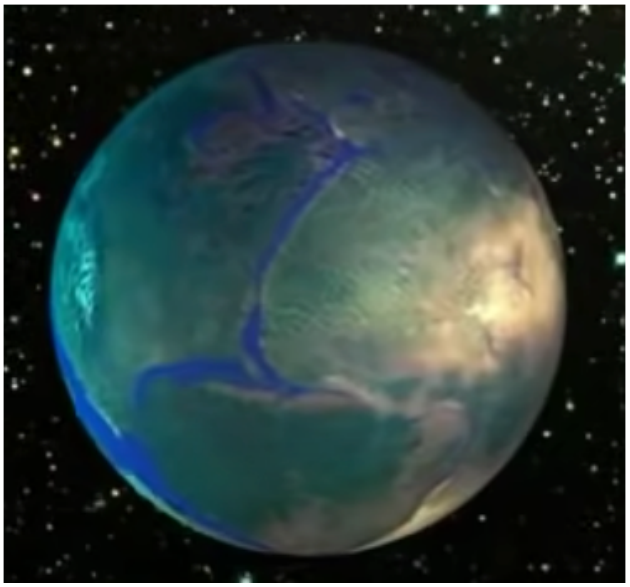
Now, the most detailed genetic analysis to date has been carried out by researchers of Upper Paleolithic Europeans, and researchers have discovered a major new lineage of early modern humans.

This group is believed to have lived in northwest Europe about 35,000 years ago and have contributed directly to the ancestry of present-day Europeans. They are, essentially, the founding fathers of Europe.

But generally and internationally speaking being Nordic and being Scandinavian essentially means the same thing: being a citizen of either Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Finland, Iceland, or the Faroe Islands (with Finland sometimes considered the odd one out as they do not share the same Norse heritage as the other countries).

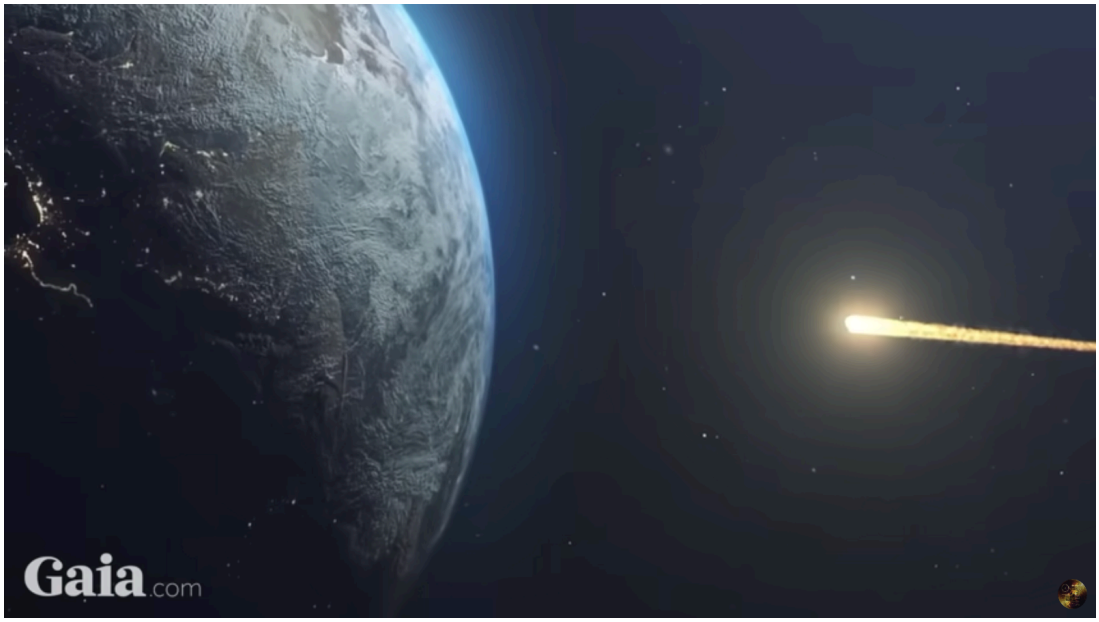
1. The original and locally preferred view is that Iceland, Finland, Faroe Islands, and Greenland are all countries considered to be part of the Nordics, but not technically part of Scandinavia (which would only be Sweden, Norway and Denmark in this case).

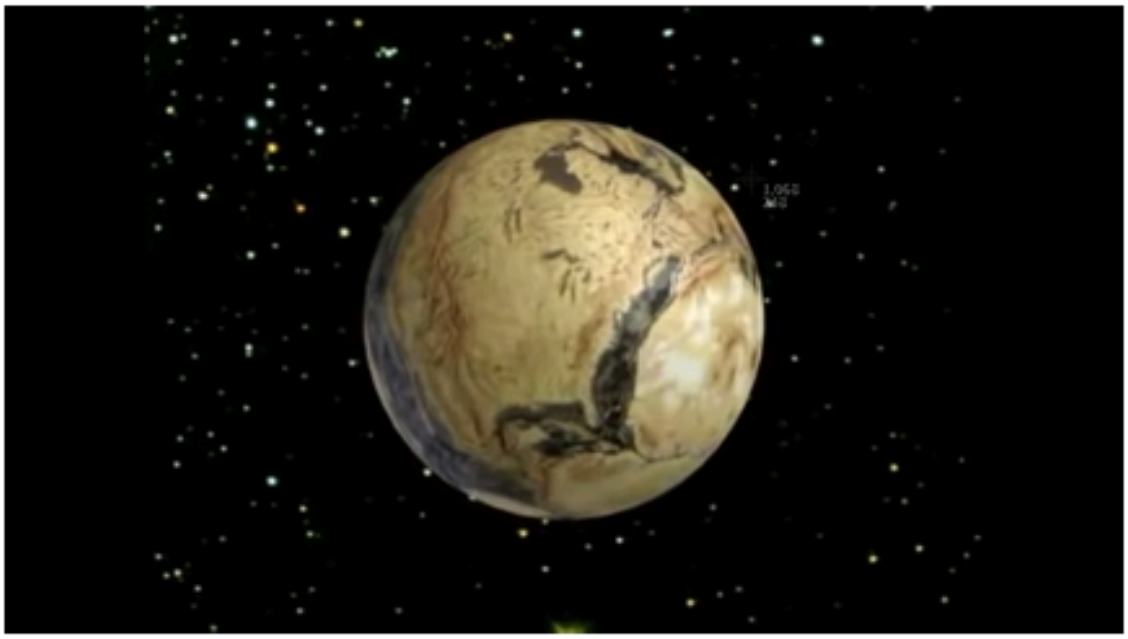
2. The international and more commonly preferred view is that the Faroe Islands, Finland and Iceland are part of both Scandinavia and the Nordics, leaving Greenland as the only non-Scandinavian country in the Nordics (along with the Norwegian territories of Svalbard, Jan Mayen and Bouvet Island).



Earth Changes Happen when an Asteroid Strikes

The Plates now at the North Pole were once warm climates before the earth grew apart and when the earth was a much smaller ball where the sun's rays could reach the various regions of our world equally. This is why there were no frozen poles during pre-flood periods.





HOW COULD ANCIENT PROPHETS AND LEGENDS TALK ABOUT THE WHOLE EARTH UNLESS THEY KNEW EARTH WAS ONCE A LARGE LAND MASS

With Trump and the POWERS THAT BE focusing on Greenland what comes to my mind is that Greenland and the North Pole were once the home of our Scandinavian Nordic Mother Race.

What is now the North Pole used to be a subtropical region where ORIGINAL MAN came from when our earth was a much smaller interconnected ball.

In the not two distant past the tectonic plates moved most likely do to a pole shift during the Younger Dryas, Flood period. When that happened, Greenland and what used to be Hyperboria moved from a subtropical region into a freeze zone where we find them today.

Early Humans Probably Didn't Evolve from a Single Population in Africa

Homo sapiens are incredibly diverse — we live in wildly different societies, follow different rules and love and fear different gods.

Stay away from the Bible and Christians if you want to know who our ORIGINAL ANCESTORS were whose DNA we all carry. You see the Old Testament only talks about the Jewish and Middle East Mesopotamian Sumerian Persian Gulf HYBRID Adam whose descents have become the Jewish and Hebrew bloodlines in the Old Testament. Some of them went on to form the DEEP STATE today.

The truth about human origins has been focusing on THEIR VERSION OF HUMAN ORIGINS NOT OURS. All the data we learn about human origins has been focused on THEIR HOMELAND and about the EVOLUTIONLARY MODEL, with a MISSING LINK which does NOT apply to RACE of ORIGINAL MAN. According to the Jewish and Hebrew Old Testament, the Persian Gulf Adam was cloned by an alien entity that the Bible refers to as Yahweh Ildabaoth the Demiurge YHWH. Satan, was obviously the leader of the Elohim aliens who were referred to as recreating the Persian Gulf region after the flood of Noah. At some point Christians have to realize that the hybrid Adamic bloodline had nothing to do with creation of ORIGINAL MAN. People have to realize that that the Missing Link were aliens.

Scientists Claim Cro Magnon DNA Fully Modern, Unchanged for 28,000 Years
A Cro-Magnon DNA sequence 28,000 years old was obtained from fossil bones discoverd in the Paglicci cave, in Italy. The results show that the DNA is identical to the DNA sequences of certain modern Europeans. The DNA sequence has remained static and unchanged over 28,000 years. This means that Cro Magnon was a fully modern individual who perhaps had a larger brain capacity. (1)

The reason the origins for our ORIGINAL SCANDINAVIAN MITOCHONDRIAL MOTHERS are so illusive is because the data has been shoved under the rug by those who had the money and power to control the flow of information in the past and still today.

If only people would realize how much early data was DESTROYED by the JROCCC alone they would be shocked.

Magdalenian People

- Descendants of the Cro-Magnon (earliest modern humans).
- Appear throughout Europe during the Upper Paleolithic (Old Stone Age 40,000-10,000 BCE) and early Mesolithic Period (10,000 BCE – 5,000 BCE). The dates: 15,000-7,000 BCE
- They set up semi-permanent residence and maintained a hunter gathering lifestyle.
- Similarities in Upper Paleolithic paintings indicate a possible continental network of early communication between groups.

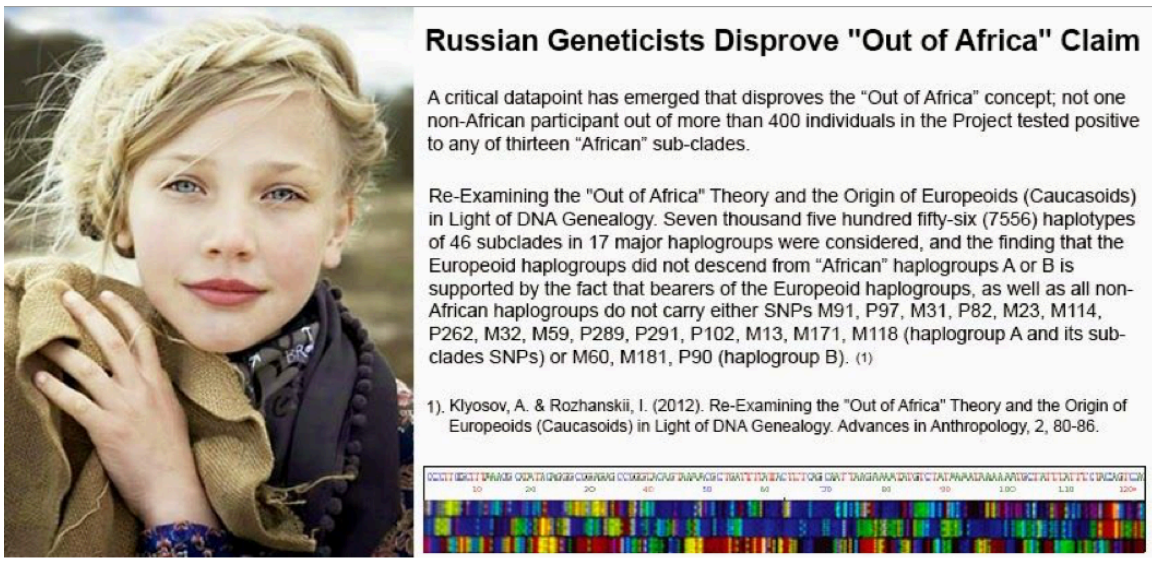
According to Prof. Francois Bordes, world renown archeologist and former director of the Laboratory of Prehistory at the University of Bordeaux, the Aurignacian [Cro Magnon] tool tradition without doubt originates outside of Europe, ready-made, although from where is still a mystery (Bordes, 1968).

Europeoid haplogroups did not descend from “African”



Russian Geneticists Disprove "Out of Africa" Claim
A critical datapoint has emerged that disproves the “Out of Africa” concept; not one non-African participant out of more than 400 individuals in the Project tested positive to any of thirteen “African” sub-clades.
Re-Examining the "Out of Africa" Theory and the Origin of Europeoids (Caucasoids) in Light of DNA Genealogy. Seven thousand five hundred fifty-six (7556) haplotypes of 46 subclades in 17 major haplogroups were considered, and the finding that the Europeoid haplogroups did not descend from “African” haplogroups A or B is supported by the fact that bearers of the Europeoid haplogroups, as well as all non-African haplogroups do not carry either SNPs M91, P97, M31, P82, M23, M114, P262, M32, M59, P289, P291, P102, M13, M171, M118 (haplogroup A and its sub-clades SNPs) or M60, M181, P90 (haplogroup B). Original Man did not carry the African haplogroups

Our original origins are much more interesting. Hominine ape or monkey man can be tracked back around 6 million years through fossil and DNA evidence Homosapiens or fully developed humans do not appear in the fossil record until around 200.000 - 300.000 years way before the Hybrid Adam in the Old Testament was hybridized. Yet, no one has checked out the fossil records of the North Pole region, which is under ice today. It is actually a NO FLY ZONE TODAY.

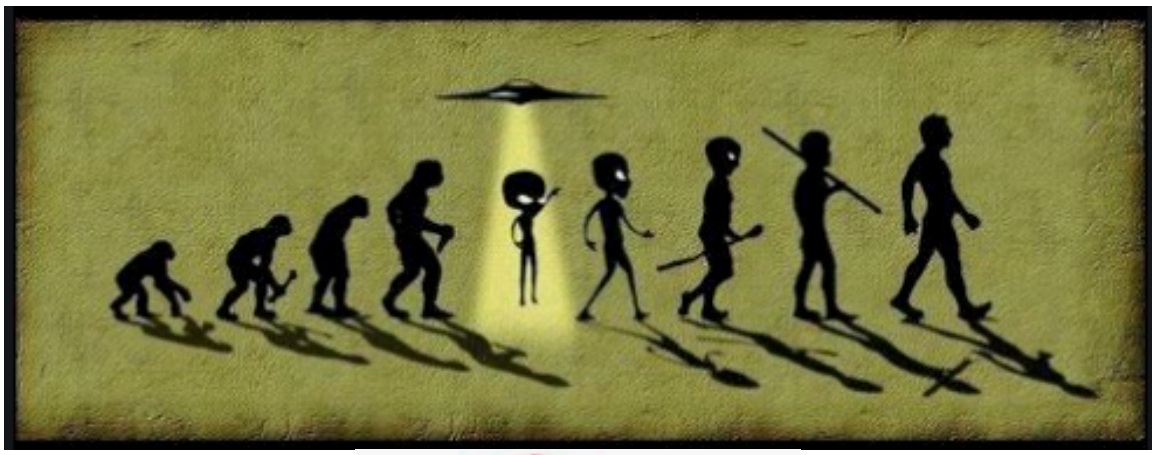
The origin of ORIGINAL MAN has always been kept under lock and keys just ask archeologists who ARE NOT ALLOWED TO GO THERE.



It looks like the best version of a human like being the Fallen Angels, Aliens, Elohim, Anunnaki ALIEN gods could create originally was MONKEY MAN. Original man fully formed and ready to go were created by Our Heavenly Father, Jesus and the GOOD WATCHERS and then placed on earth. The DEEP STATE are the descendents of the evolutionary process that started with MONKEY MAN but do not want us to know that.

This is why the Powers that Be promote Evolution and do not want to mention who the missing link was that turned Monkey Man into Hybrid man. It was THEM THEY DID IT. ALIENS ARE THE MISSING LINK.

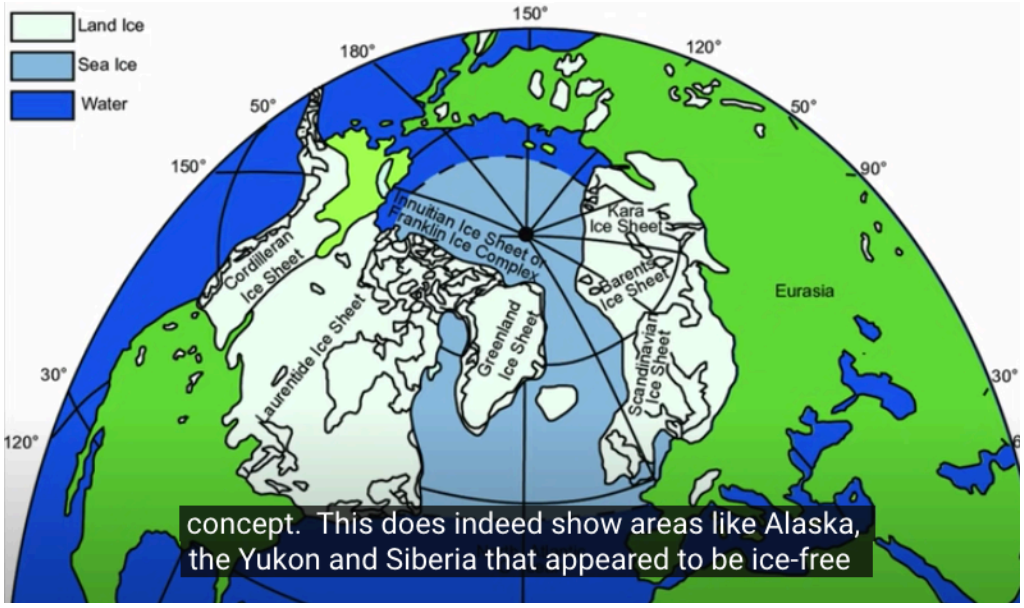
WHERE DID ORIGINAL MAN COME FROM???



Land of our Mitochondrial Scandinavin Mothers

As the earth grew and the tectonic plates spread apart as Neil E. Adams states, the lands turned into individual islands in the North and South Poles and froze over. Today another secret has been exposed that in the North Pole region, there is a big hole in the earth and it is also true at the South Pole. Today that hole in the north is referred to as a NO FLY ZONE. You see that region is an entrance to the underworld where aliens have set up housekeeping, which is also mentioned in the Bible, These aliens were driven underground where they fly in and out of today using various holes in the surface of our planet. Today most of these UFO'S people see today are man made and associated with the inner earth Nazi installations. Yes the Nazi's have underground bases today.

While Old Testament FACT or FICTION legends were in full swing, the earth was expanding from one large ball. In the Old Testament we have the story of, Joshua (10:12-14) who saw the sun (and moon) "stand still" over Gibeon and the Valley of Aijalon, halting its normal rising and setting for a day which in our language could be defined as an extended period of time. A "day" in the Bible, particularly in Genesis, is often interpreted as a literal 24-hour period (an "evening and morning"), but the Hebrew word yom can also mean daylight hours. If the sun stood still during a pole shift or a tectonic realignment on earth in his location, that a day could be an indefinite time frame when the sun did not set, or a longer era of time. The Jews and Hebrew people were different groups with different languages leading to different views on the period of creation. Today we use terms like day and age that we live in.

These tiny snippets found in the Bible are completely over looked and ignored by the JROCCC as the discussion remains on a battle that was going on and not an earth changing tectonic plate event that was happening at the time. Unfortunately most Christians have never read the Bible, instead they are directed to out of context verses or to a particular subject or story. They also do not know how to read the symbolisms or the code language inside the texts.

It is sad or as we used to day pathetic how little Christians really know about the JROCCC and the Bible. Those few of us who have actually read almost the entire bible and studied it are very aware of what a PIOUS FRAUD the JROCCC and the Bible are.

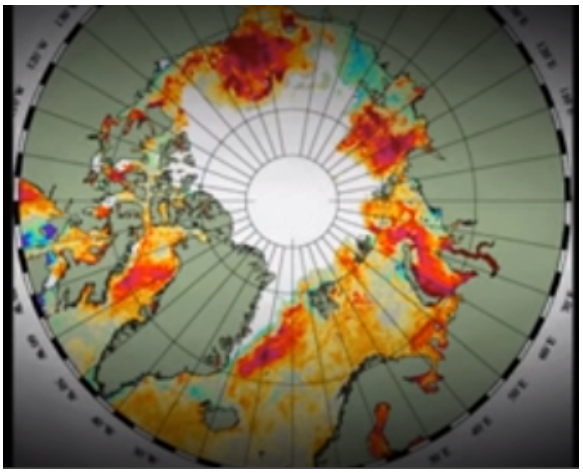
The legends about the location for these fully developed human's in history talk about Hyperboria, the land beyond the mountains and the north winds. Legends tell us that a part of Greenland was referred to as Ultimate Thule the spot on the map that the Celts claim they originally migrated from before the incoming Mediterranean and Anglo Saxon migrations came from the Middle East... In that same North Pole region, we find Hyperboria or what used to be Hyperboria before the last Pole Shift, Younger Dryas, Flood period in history.

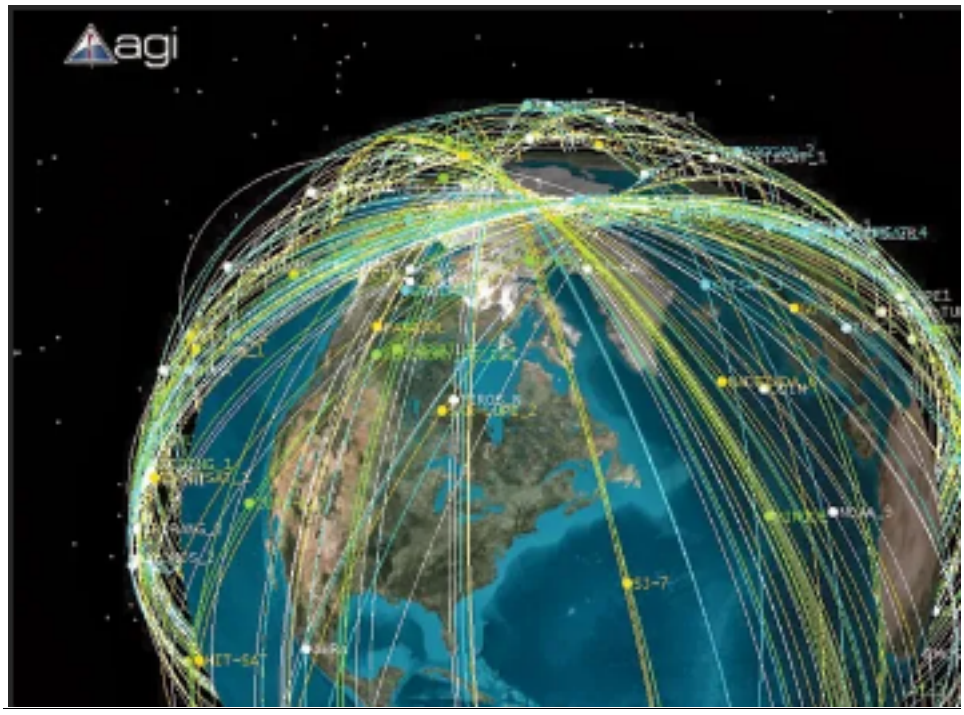
Notice that these Scandinavians migrated south from the North Pole into different countries as they traveled south

Thule was/is a legendary northern island, theorized as being located in Greenland, Iceland, Norway, or Shetland. Thule appears on historical maps as the edge of the known world. Maps from different eras, like Mortier's 1700 map, sometimes depicted the Americas as the land Atlantis (Atlantis Insula) is associated with but indicate that Thule was a northern land, involved in early human imaginations to the south from what we call the North Pole today. Atlantis also seems to be associated with the Solutrean Indians where the Magdalenian's and Aurignacine's seem to be also associated with the bloodlines that migrated south from the North Pole into Northern Israel as who the Bible refers to as the Nicene's aka the Nazarenes etc., who were the people group Jesus was associated with.

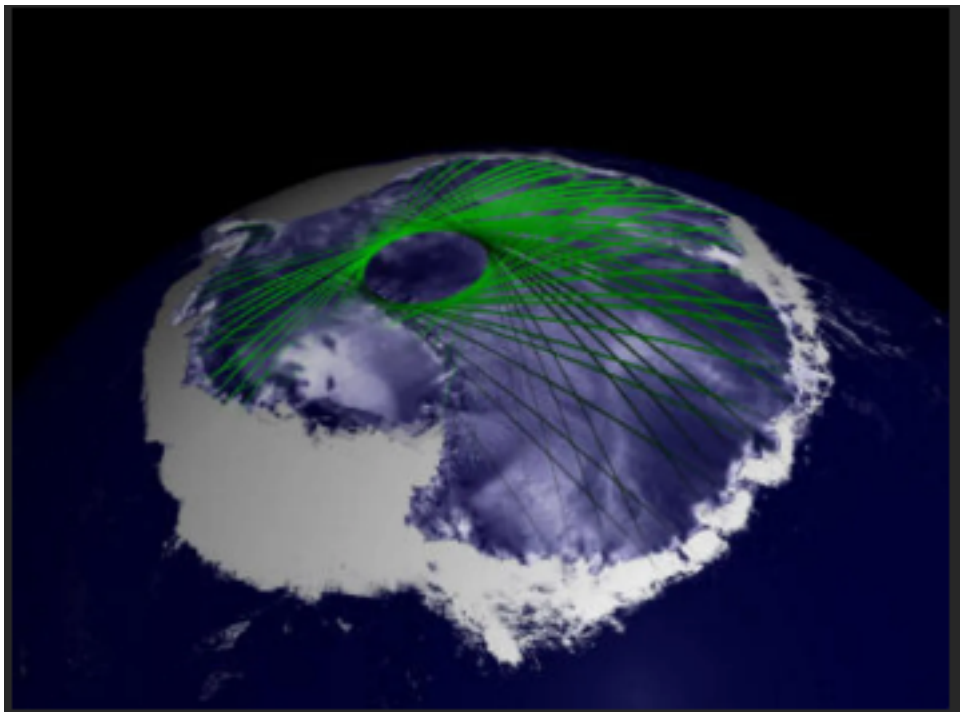
ABOVE THE HYPERBOREA REGION TODAY IS THE NO FLY ZONE



Hyperborean Region



No one is allowed to Fly Over it. What we call the Deep State today as well as by other names like the Shadow Government and Military etc. do not want us to see who is flying in and out of the hole in the Poles so they labeled it a No Fly Zone.



North Pole "No Fly" Zone?

Well, if you can't see the hole from satellite then you can't see it from a plane you??

So I wrote to my friend Don Daniels who I knew had flown planes – for United Airlines at one time – and I asked him if you can fly over the north pole. He wrote

- We are not allowed to fly directly over the North Pole, the stated reason being that the older navigation systems on for instance the B-747 would get temporarily confused as to which South to reference to. Newer navigation systems like on the B-777 mathematically switch the poles to the equator when we are far north or south and thus there is no ambiguity. However, they tell us to not even ask as we will not get permission to deviate directly over the pole, an it would be considered a gross navigation error.
- I have been within 60 miles of the North Pole on a number of occasions, and while it is surprisingly smoggy or hazy, I should have been able to see an opening of any significant size.

This was in 2006 – he sent me some photos!!

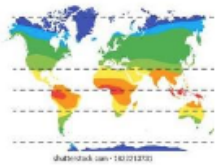
"Subtropical" refers to regions bordering the tropics, characterized by warm to hot summers and mild winters, found between roughly 25° and 40° latitude in both hemispheres, supporting diverse ecosystems like humid forests or semi-arid zones, and distinct from purely tropical or temperate climates.



Once you begin to study HUMAN ORIGNS you find that history is not what we have been told it was. That many previous theories regarding human origins have been assumptions and guesses and there is little hard evidence regarding WHO CAME FROM WHERE that exists outside of what the JROCCC and Deep State players want us to know about today. The theories out there do not go back far enough in human history to tell the real story. These theories also do not include migrations from the Arctic and Antarctic regions when these continents were much closer to the equator subtropical and fertile.

Seven thousand five hundred fifty-six (7556) haplotypes of 46 subclades in 17 major haplogroups were considered, concluding that the Europeoid haplogroups did not descend from "African" haplogroups.

No Europeoid (Caucasoid) haplogroup, or any of the non-African haplogroups, were found to carry any autosomnal SNP in common with the African populations that they are purported to be descended from in the "Out of Africa" hypothesis.

It wipes out the entire claim that all human races descend from africans or from a common ancestor along with africans, since the deep genetic markers do not exist in common to show such lineage.

Scientists do not want you to know that they have no idea were some of the people groups on earth originated from who entered northwestern Europe thousands of years ago., especially the Scandinavian people groups. Instead of identifying Scandinavians as as a different race, they tell us what they ate and hunted. They also talk about head size and shape. These scientists give us very illusive information that is somewhat useless.

30,000 year old Cro Magnon burial with with thousands of painstakingly prepared ivory beads arranged in dozens of strands, basted to their clothing. Cro magnon has been found to be genetically identical to some modern European populations.

They tell us that the Mediterranean people groups who migrated into southwestern Europe from the Middle and Far East were shorter, had smaller head and brain sizes. They also just happen to mention that the Scandinavian group associated with the Atlantic Ocean and coast lines were tall, muscle bound with a larger heads and brain sizes. This is important because larger brain sizes generally mean a much higher IQ.

Instead of identifying these people groups by race or nationalities, they shroud them with long names or eras and some cases these people groups are numbered instead of identified by race. We here identifiers like this instead about the Indians who they described as people who lived in tepees and hunted with spear points. They were classified as Hunter Gathers, That is about as interesting as a cold bowl of oatmeal.

The group of people known as the Founding Fathers of Europe lived in the northwest around 35,000 years ago. Researchers have concluded that they directly contributed to the ancestry of present-day European. Source: Stefano Ricci

Previous archaeological studies have found that modern humans swept into Europe 45,000 years ago — this is what ultimately led to the extinction of the Neanderthals, regardless of the fact that some modern humans interbred with them.

The Magdalenian's, Aurignacines who appear to have been Scandinavians or a Scandinavian mixed race that also migrated into Israel where they were known as the Nicene's, Nazarenes, the Naphtali, the Apiru, yet their race and color was not mentioned in the Bible" The POWERS THAT BE would not describe their race, hair and eye color. The identity of our Scandinavian Mother race has been a COVERT SECRET.

My interest here is to take you back to the Scandinavian race that I believe were the indigenous people on earth. I believe our mitochondrial mothers were Scandinavians until these ancient gods came down and mingled with the DNA of their descendents using rape, artificial insemination and cloning.

I believe that Neal Adams is right when he exposed the "Conspiracy of Science" data which shows us that the earth was once one large land mass. That global cataclysms cause the earth to separate into 7 continents and spread apart to where they are today.

I also believe that legends have some merit and all though they have been marginalized and mystified, there is truth hidden in these ancient legends that need to be studied.

Notice Christopher Columbus had the Googly Semite Eyes

SUMERIAN GOOGLIE EYED RACE

I further believe that most of what we have been told about human history was actually designed by people with hidden agendas who are promoting their own historical bloodline data and lineages for very devious reasons. Example: Christopher Columbus is traditionally considered an Italian explorer from Genoa, but recent DNA evidence and historical theories suggest he might have been Spanish or even Sephardic Jewish, sparking ongoing debate about his true origin, though the Italian claim remains widely accepted by historians.

AI says: No single person "founded" America; it was first inhabited by Indigenous peoples thousands of years ago, followed by Norse Vikings like Leif Erikson around 1000 AD, and later by Europeans like Christopher Columbus, whose voyages initiated large-scale European colonization, although he thought he'd reached Asia and never set foot on the U.S. mainland.

Cristopher Columbus was not the founder of America but he is obviously the descendent of Sephardic Jewish Deep State bloodline regardless, which is why he was given the honor of being the named first man to discover America. We know the Templar's made it before him and so did an early form of the Secret Societies and even the Vikings if I remember correctly..

These Secret Society DEEP STATE movements have had the money and power to promote their theories though out history. It is not a secret that the Jewish and Roman Orthodox Catholic and Christian Churches (JROCCC) funded most past archeological digs, with the expressed intent to prove Bible history as fact instead of REAL HISTORY. When these archeologists find other data, which disprove Bible History, they are told to disregard, to not mention it or they will loose their funding. What is published is data and information that tends to promote their Mesopotamian, Babylonian Jewish, Turkish, Pagan, etc., bloodline history instead and this is also true of the JROCCC who only promote Jewish, Hebrew, Turkish, Semite Mesopotamian legends.

It has been the "Serpent Bloodline Global Elite Beast Movements" that have been promoting the hybrid bloodline migrations into the world and IGNORING THE MIGRATIONS OF OUR SCANDINAVIAN MITOCHONDRIA MOTHER RACE INSTEAD.

WHAT DO EXPERTS SAY ABOUT THE ORIGIN OF OUR SCANDINAVIAN MITOCHONDRIA MOTHER RACE

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hyperborea

According to Pliny, the Hyperboreans lived beyond the Ripaean mountains (which is a generic term for the mountains of Northern Europe and Russia.) They are a happy race, and "all discord and all sorrow is unknown." The Hyperboreans live to extreme old age, dying by leaping off a certain rock into the sea after having a full life. The sun rises in the midsummer, and then sets in midwinter, and there is a "delightful climate." Pliny goes on to say that "Some authorities have placed these people not in Europe but on the nearest part of the coasts of Asia, because there is a race there with similar customs and a similar location, named the Attaci." (Pliny Book IV, sec 89.) (Rackham, 1942.)

http://www.eaudrey.com/myth/Places/hyperborea.htm

There are many instances of areas that ice theorists claim have been glaciated but evidence of that glaciation cannot be found. For example, there should be glacial deposits on the floor of the Barents Sea, north of Norway. But none have ever been found.

In several cases in the North Sea, if the glaciation had come from Scandinavia as claimed we would see evidence of movement from North East to South West. Instead the evidence shows movement from North West to South West.

In Greek mythology the Hyperboreans were a mythical people who lived far to the north of Thrace. The Greeks thought that Boreas, the North Wind,[1] lived in Thrace, and that therefore Hyperborea was an unspecified region in the northern lands that lay beyond the north wind. Their land, called Hyperborea or Hyperboria — "beyond the Boreas" — was perfect, with the sun shining twenty-four hours a day, which - if true - clearly also suggests a possible location within the Arctic Circle for the origins of our Scandinavian and Nordic Ancestors.

SONG ABOUT HYPERBORIANS WHO LIVED BEYOND THE NORTH WIND

Never the Muse is absent from their ways: lyres clash and flutes cry and everywhere maiden choruses whirling.
Neither disease nor bitter old age is mixed

Pindar, Tenth Pythian Ode; translated by Richmond Lattimore.
Reaching such exotic lands is never easy; Pindar cautioned:

neither by ship nor on foot would you find the marvellous road to the assembly of the Hyperboreans.

LOCATION OF HYPERBOREA

The Hyperboreans were believed to live beyond the snowy Riphean Mountains which Homer first referenced in his Iliad (15. 171; 19. 358)[6] or beyond the home of Boreas.

The Riphean Mountains are mountains mentioned by authors of classical antiquity (Apollonius of Rhodes, Aristotle, Hecataeus of Miletus, Hippocrates, Ptolemy and others), but whose location was unknown or unreachable.

Noah Webster wrote that the earliest geographers applied the term to the Alps in Switzerland and claimed that they are the source of the Danube. Later Roman writers applied the term to mountains in the north of Europe or Asia. Pomponius Mela placed them within the Arctic Circle. Pliny the Elder assigned them to the Ural Mountains. All sources agree that the Riphean mountains were cold and blanketed in snow.[1]

ACCORDING TO PAUSANIAS:

..."The land of the Hyperboreans, men living beyond the home of Boreas."[7]

Homer placed Boreas in Thrace, and therefore Hyperborea in his opinion dwelled somewhere to the north of Thracian territory, perhaps Dacia.[8] Sophocles (Antigone, 980-987), Aeschylus (Agamemnon, 193; 651), Simonides of Ceos (Schol. on Apollonius Rhodius, 1. 121) and Callimachus (Delian, [IV] 65) also placed Boreas in Thrace.[9] Other ancient writers however believed the home of Boreas or the Rhipean Mountains sat in a different location. For example, Hecataeus of Miletus believed that the Rhipean Mountains sat adjacent to the Black Sea.[10] Alternatively Pindar placed the home of Boreas, the Rhipean Mountains and Hyperborea all near the Danube.[11] Heraclides Ponticus and Antimachus in contrast identified the Rhipean Mountains with the Alps, and the Hyperboreans as a Celtic tribe (perhaps the Helvetii) who sat just beyond them.[12] Aristotle placed the Rhipean mountains on the borders of Scythia, and Hyperborea further north.[13] Hecataeus of Abdera and others believed Hyperborea was Britain (see below).

Later Roman and Greek sources continued to change the location of the Rhipean mountains, the home of Boreas, as well as Hyperborea which supposedly dwelled beyond them. However all these sources agreed they all dwelled to the far north of Greece or southern Europe.[14] The ancient grammarian Simmias of

Rhodes in the 3rd century BC connected the Hyperboreans to the Massagetae[15] and Posidonius in the 1st century BC to the Western Celts, but Pomponius Mela placed them even further north in the vicinity of the Arctic.[16]

In maps based on reference points and descriptions given by Strabo,[17] Hyperborea, shown variously as a peninsula or island, is located beyond France and has a greater latitudinal than longitudinal extent.[18] Other descriptions put it in the general area of the Ural Mountains.

LATER CLASSICAL SOURCES SAY

Plutarch, writing in the 1st century AD connected the Hyperboreans with the Gauls who had sacked Rome in the 4th century BC (see Battle of the Allia).[19]

Aelian, Diodorus Siculus and Stephen of Byzantium all recorded important ancient Greek sources on Hyperborea, but added no new descriptions.[20]

The 2nd century AD Stoic philosopher Hierocles equated the Hyperboreans to the Scythians, and the Rhipean Mountains to the Ural Mountains.[21] Clement of Alexandria and other early Christian writers also made this same Scythian equation.[22]

Ancient identification with Britain

Hyperborea was identified with Britain first by Hecataeus of Abdera in the 4th century BC, as preserved in fragment by Diodorus Siculus:

In the regions beyond the land of the Celts there lies in the ocean an island no smaller than Sicily. This island, the account continues, is situated in the north and is inhabited by the Hyperboreans, who are called by that name because their home is beyond the point whence the north wind (Boreas) blows; and the island is both fertile and productive of every crop, and has an unusually temperate climate.[23]

Hecateaus of Abdera also wrote that the Hyperboreans had a 'circular temple' on their Island, which some scholars have identified with Stonehenge.[20] This is further supported by the fact that Stonehenge has been known as Apollo's Temple[24] since classical antiquity, and Hyperborea in Greek legend was related to Apollo (see Legends below).

Pseudo-Scymnus around 90BC wrote that Boreas dwelled at the extremity of Gaulish territory, and that he had a pillar erected in his name on the edge of the sea (Periegesis, 183). Some have claimed this is a geographical reference to northern France, and Hyperborea as the British Isles which lay just beyond the English Channel.[25]

Ptolemy (Geographia, 2. 21) and Marcian of Heraclea (Periplus, 2. 42) both placed Hyperborea in the North Sea which they called the 'Hyperborean Ocean'.[26]

LEGENDS

Alone among the Twelve Olympians, Apollo was venerated among the Hyperboreans, the Hellenes thought: he spent his winter amongst them.[27] For their part the Hyperboreans sent mysterious gifts, packed in straw, which came first to Dodona and then were passed from tribe to tribe until they came to Apollo's temple on Delos (Pausanias). Abaris, Hyperborean priest of Apollo, was a legendary wandering healer and seer. Theseus visited the Hyperboreans, and Pindar transferred Perseus's encounter with Medusa there from its traditional site in Libya, to the dissatisfaction of his Alexandrian editors.[28]

Along with Thule, Hyperborea was one of several terrae incognitae to the Greeks and Romans, where Pliny, Pindar and Herodotus, as well as Virgil and Cicero, reported that people lived to the age of one thousand and enjoyed lives of complete happiness. Hecataeus of Abdera collated all the stories about the Hyperboreans current in the fourth century BC and published a lengthy treatise on them, lost to us, but noted by Diodorus Siculus (ii.47.1-2).[29] Also, the sun was supposed to rise and set only once a year in Hyperborea; which would place it above or upon the Arctic Circle, or, more generally, in the arctic polar regions.

The ancient Greek writer Theopompus in his work Philippica claimed Hyperborea was once planned to be conquered by a large race of soldiers from another island (some have claimed this was Atlantis), the plan though was abandoned because the soldiers from Meropis realized the Hyperboreans were too strong for them and the most blessed of people, this unusual tale, which some believe was satire or comedy, was preserved by Aelian (Varia Historia, 3. 18).

Apollonius wrote that the Argonauts sighted Hyperborea, when they sailed through Eridanos

PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Greek legend asserts that the Boreades, who were the descendants of Boreas and the snow-nymph Khoine or Choine founded the first theocratic-monarchy on Hyperborea. This legend is found preserved in the writings of Aelian:

...This god [Apollon] has as priests the sons of Boreas (North Wind) and Khione (Snow), three in number, brothers by birth, and six cubits in height [approximately 3 metres tall].[30]

Diodorus Siculus added to this account:

...And the kings of this (Hyperborean) city and the supervisors of the sacred precinct are called Boreadae, since they are descendants of Boreas, and the succession to these positions is always kept in their family.[31]

The Boreades were thus believed to be giant kings, around 3 metres tall who ruled Hyperborea.

No other descriptions of the physiognomy of the Hyperboreans are provided in classical sources.[32] However Aelius Herodianus a grammarian in the 3rd century wrote the mythical Arimaspi were identical to the Hyperboreans in physical appearance (De Prosodia Catholica, 1. 114) and Stephanus of Byzantium in the 6th century also wrote the same (Ethnica, 118. 16). The ancient poet Callimachus described the Arimasi as having fair hair[33] but it is disputed as to whether the Arimaspi were Hyperboreans.

From east to west: Celts were thought to have come from the Hyperborian region above the Borials.

Six classical Greek authors also came to identify these mythical people at the back of the North Wind with their Celtic neighbours in the north: Antimachus of Colophon, Protarchus, Heraclides Ponticus, Hecataeus of Abdera, Apollonius of Rhodes and Posidonius of Apamea. The way the Greeks understood their relationship with non-Greek peoples was significantly moulded by the way myths of the Golden Age were transplanted unto the contemporary scene, especially in the context of Greek colonisation and trade. As the Rhipean mountains of the mythical past were identified with the Alps of northern Italy, there was at least a geographic rationale for identifying the Hyperboreans with the Celts living in and beyond the Alps, or at least the Hyperborean lands with the lands inhabited by the Celts. A reputation for feasting and a love of gold may have reinforced the connection.[35]

Today the Celts are associated with Thule as their origins, which is located on the western side of Greenland.

ABARIS THE HYPERBOREAN

A particular Hyperborean legendary healer was known as “Abaris” or “Abaris the Healer” who Herodotus first described in his works. Plato (Charmides, 158C) regarded Abaris as a physician from the far north, while Strabo reported Abaris was Scythian like the early philosopher Anacharsis (Geographica, 7. 3. 8).

MODERN INTERPRETATIONS

As with other legends of this sort, selected details can be reconciled with modern knowledge. Above the Arctic Circle, from the time of the vernal equinox to the time of the autumnal equinox, the sun can shine for twenty-four hours a day; at the extremes (that is, the Poles), it rises and sets only once a year, possibly leading to the erroneous conclusion that a "day" for such persons is a year long, and therefore that living a thousand days would be the same as living a thousand years.

THE INDEPENDENT SCANDINAVIAN NAPHTALI NAZAREN RACE IN NORTHERN ISRAEL THAT MIGRATED WEST AFTER THEIR CAPTIVITY IN MEDO PERSIA 722/721 BC HAD

The Northern Kingdom of Israel (the ten tribes) was sent into captivity by the Assyrian Empire, with the final conquest and mass deportations occurring around 722/721 BCE, marking the end of the independent northern kingdom, though earlier deportations and later remnants existed.

THE NAPTALI NAZARENE GALIEANS USED THE DEER AS THEIR LOGO

Since Herodotus places the Hyperboreans beyond the Massagetae and Issedones, both Central Asian peoples, it appears that his Hyperboreans may have lived in Siberia. Heracles sought the golden-antlered hind of Artemis in Hyperborea. As the reindeer is the only deer species of which females bear antlers, this would suggest an arctic or subarctic region. Following J.D.P. Bolton's location of the Issedones on the south-western slopes of the Altay mountains, Carl P.Ruck places Hyperborea beyond the Dzungarian Gate into northern Xinjiang, noting that the Hyperboreans were probably Chinese.[36]

Amber arrived in Greek hands from some place known to be far to the north. Avram Davidson[37] proposed the theory that Hyperborea was derived from a logical (though erroneous) explanation by the Greeks for the fact that embedded inside the amber arriving in their cities by trade with northern, cold countries were insects which obviously originated in a warm climate.

Not aware of the explanation offered by modern science (i.e. that these insects had lived in times when the climate of northern Europe was much warmer, their bodies preserved unchanged in the amber) the Greeks came up with the idea that north countries being cold was due to the cold breath of Boreas, the North Wind. Therefore, should one be able to get "beyond Boreas" one would find a warm and sunny land.

Identification as Hyperboreans

Northern Europeans (Scandinavians), when confronted with classical Greco-Roman culture in the Mediterranean, identified themselves with the Hyperboreans by neglecting the traditional aspect of a perpetually sunny land beyond the north. This idea was especially strong during the 17th century in Sweden, where the later representatives of the ideology of Gothicism declared the Scandinavian peninsula both the lost Atlantis and the Hyperborean land. The north of the Scandinavian peninsula is crossed by the Arctic Circle, north of which there are sunless days during the winter and sunlit nights during the summer. Western European culture equally self-identified as Hyperborean; thus Washington Irving, in elaborating on Astoria in the Pacific Northwest, was of the opinion that,

While the fiery and magnificent Spaniard, inflamed with the mania for gold, has extended his discoveries and conquests over those brilliant countries scorched by the ardent sun of the tropics, the adroit and buoyant Frenchman, and the cool and calculating Briton, have pursued the less splendid, but no less lucrative, traffic in furs amidst the hyperborean regions of the Canadas, until they have advanced even within the Arctic Circle. [38]

In this vein the self-described "Hyperborean Company" (Hyperboreisch-römische Gesellschaft) were a group of northern European scholars who were studying classical ruins in Rome, founded in 1824 by Theodor Panofka, Otto Magnus von Stackelberg, August Kestner and Eduard Gerhard. Friedrich Nietzsche referred to his sympathetic readers as Hyperboreans in The Antichrist (written 1888, published 1895) "Let us look each other in the face. We are Hyperboreans — we know well enough how remote our place is." He quoted Pindar and added "Beyond the North, beyond the ice, beyond death — our life, our happiness."

The term "Hyperborean" still sees some jocular contemporary use in reference to groups of people who live in a cold climate. Under the Library of Congress Classification System, the letter subclass PM includes "Hyperborean Languages", a catch-all category that refers to all the linguistically unrelated languages of peoples living in Arctic regions, such as the Inuit.

Hyperborean Indo-European Hypothesis

John G. Bennett wrote a research paper entitled "The Hyperborean Origin of the Indo-European Culture" (Journal Systematics, Vol. 1, No. 3, December 1963) in which he claimed the Indo-European homeland was in the far north, which he considered the Hyperborea of classical antiquity.[39] This idea was earlier proposed by Bal Gangadhar Tilak (who Bennett credits) in his The Arctic Home in the Vedas (1903) as well as the German ethnologist Karl Penka (Origins of the Aryans, 1883).[40]

Hyperborea in modern esoteric thought

H.P. Blavatsky, Rene Guenon and Julius Evola all shared the belief in the Hyperborean, polar origins of humankind and a subsequent solidification and devolution.[41] According to these esoterists, Hyperborea was the Golden Age polar center of civilization and spirituality; mankind does not rise from the ape, but progressively devolves into the apelike condition as it strays physically and spiritually from its mystical otherworldly homeland in the Far North, succumbing to the demonic energies of the South Pole, the greatest point of materialization (see Joscelyn Godwin, Arktos: The Polar Myth).

Robert Charroux first related the Hyperboreans to an ancient astronaut race of “reputedly very large, very white people” who had chosen “the least warm area on the earth because it corresponded more closely to their own climate on the planet from which they originated”.[42] Miguel Serrano was influenced by Charroux's writings on the Hyperboreans.[43]

If you pay attention to global trends and activities from the ancient world you will find that the events that have been taking place on earth for thousands of years correspond to science, geology, archeology finds and myths about a fabulous race. These findings tell us that ORIGINAL SCANDINAVIAN AND NORDIC MAN once had the DIVINE RIGHT TO RULE THE WORLD and that one day they will RULE AGAIN. Today Trump is attempting to secure Greenland to protect America. Greenland was part of the Scandinavian Nordic original homeland where Trumps Ancestors came from. Is this a coincidence? I don't think so.
